The 1963 De-O-Wain-Sta presents with pride all our activities and endeavors throughout the school year that will be remembered in future years. We hope you will share with us our pride in Rome Free Academy — its administration and faculty, student body, sports, activities, and the scholastic as well as the athletic achievements. We can boast of modern facilities and good student government guided by the excellent members of the cabinet. We can boast of the new methods of training that benefit us.

Our Alma Mater has been the scene of many activities and will always be a storehouse of memories. Rome Free Academy is a place not only for acquiring knowledge, but also for learning to live with others. Here we meet new friends and put the fundamentals of government into practice through the Student Association. In everything we do, we reflect a pride in our school and for what it stands.

The seniors now "point with pride" more than in past years. This is their final year in a school that for three years has been a main part of their lives. Memories ranging from classes to dances begin to mean more now that their time here is almost over. For the juniors and sophomores there is still time to build their pride in RFA. We hope that in future years you will still "point with pride" to our Alma Mater, RFA.

With these things in mind the staff presents the theme of the 1963 De-O-Wain-Sta . . .

We Point with Pride

Dedication

An individual is made up of many things. Every phase of his life at Rome Free Academy has influenced his character. He is part of all the teachers he has known, part of all the friends he greets daily in the halls, part of the activities and sports he has participated in, and part of all his scholastic and personal achievements. He is a unique product of a certain environment, of particular acquaintances, and of an unknown quality — all of which distinguish him from his fellow man. During his years in high school, an individual sets his goals in life and begins his climb to reach these goals. He decides what he values as important and worthy of his efforts. These things make up only part of the complex individual.

Since our parents, teachers, and friends (yes, and even our enemies) influence our character, we become a part of one another. Our lives, like ripples in a stream, begin as separate units and slowly become inter-related. One life, upon touching another, becomes a part of the other. The personalities with whom each student acquaints himself while at Rome Free Academy strengthen and broaden him as an individual. His originality and individuality sharpen as each level of his education progresses with each new acquaintance. If our knowledge of life were affected by our personal experiences only, we would be deficient in knowledge, and our chances for a successful and happy life would be stifled. Each acquaintance, good or bad, leaves with us a lesson or a bit of knowledge which further helps us to understand better the mysteries of life.

Each individual at Rome Free Academy, each student, each teacher, and each administrator is worthy of remark and recognition, for each has left his indelible mark upon our lives. With this in mind, the 1963 De-O-Wain-Sta humbly, yet proudly, dedicates this yearbook to you — every individual of Rome Free Academy.

STUDENT BODY

In the year eighteen hundred and seventy, Rome Academy changed from a private school, with a limited educational program, to Rome Free Academy, an institution that offers education to all who reside within its boundaries. This year's student body of 2100, largest in RFA's history, will long be remembered not only for its outstanding number but also for its outstanding year — a year filled with scholastic and athletic promise, to which . . .

Recalls . . .

In two senses, the class of '63 dedicates its yearbook to individuals . . . those who have through the past four years, molded its growth, and those who, as yet, unmet, shall contribute to its wealth in the unfolding future.

Three years ago we, entered the vast unknown of Rome Free Academy, as incipient sophomores, and mingled . . . sharing weeks of going to the wrong class (and never knowing the difference), forgetting whether we had first or second lunch period (and which for which day of the week), losing our locker combinations (when we finally got them) and just generally feeling like supreme idiots. As is inevitable, the passing months kindled a feeling of unity among us. No longer were we ex-Staleyites or ex-Laurelites . . . we were all RFA'ers. As a spirited and united class, we plunged into a year of memories-to-be-made. After we elected Barb Pritchard, Camille Salce, Sue Luzzi and John DelPiano our President, Vice-President, Secretary, and Treasurer respectively, and took an active part in the Thanksgiving Drive, we headed towards the grand task of decorating the school for Christmas (who can forget the tree on the roof?). All the hours after school and all the freezing Saturday mornings in the snow seemed worthwhile when we looked proudly into the alcove at the forest scene, and peeked out the windows at our contribution to festive reverence. The year just kept on rolling . . . until time came for our Sophomore Dress-Up Dance . . . "April Showers." Many after school decoration sessions yielded many memories. Somehow we rattled through those nervewracking Regents, and after a hectic summer of summer-school, swimming, and a job here and there, we bustled back to lord it over the confused sophomores and to play slave to the superior (???)seniors.

This, our Junior year, may have been intermediary, but it was, nonetheless, a year of pride and accomplishment. We swung right into the spirit of things with a record donation to the Food Drive in November. Many weeks of working with our officers, President

Mr. Pelkey, our advisor, helps Mary Ann Tagliaferri and Chris Brodock.

Barb Pritchard, Vice-President Pete Zawaly, Secretary Carol Jones, and Treasurer Doug Thaler, coupled with many weeks of toiling committees and assorted queries, climaxed the day we oh-so-proudly received our class rings. To us they are unique . . . almost as much as our Junior Prom . . . "Carousel" . . . which brought compliments galore and established a standard it will take a long time to equal.

One more summer and we had bridged the chasm between eleventh and twelfth grades, becoming "mighty seniors." Moreover, we had become individuals expressing particular interests and embarking upon diversified paths into the future. As each event approached, we anticipated it in our own personal way; as each event passed, we remembered it in our own personal way. As such we chose Pete Zawaly, Camille Salce, Debbie Castle, and John DelPiano our able guides; rehearsed and re-rehearsed for our capacity-crowd Senior Play — "Turn Back the Clock," chipped in on the Thanksgiving Drive, eagerly ordered our name cards (let's see . . . do I have over 100 friends!) and graduation announcements, stood posture-perfect for our cap and gown measurements, crammed for those mind-draining college boards and dreaded June Regents (as always). We powdered and polished for our senior pictures, and counted calories before the Senior Banquet. After going half batty waiting for college and job acceptances, and nearly delirious when they finally came, we arrived somewhat shy, somewhat scared, somewhat eager . . . but all-wondering, at our "big moment" . . . graduation. Baccalaureate put us in the mood . . . thankful for all our blessings, hopeful for all our tomorrows, aspiring for all our undiscovered potentials, unprayed prayers, and undreamed dreams. We now stand between all that is past and all that is future. As individuals we will blend into the world now, and as individuals we will be proud to have graduated from RFA . . . our Alma Mater. A giant step into the tomorrows . . .

With a feeling of newly gained responsibility and prestige, we took our place as Juniors, more serious in purpose and thought. Our new class officers: President, Bill Fernandez; Vice-President, Gary Selden; Secretary, Geraldine Corigiliano; Treasurer, Cyndy Stropp, assuming the initiative, prepared to guide us through another phase of scholastic growth and maturity. Our determination as a class was demonstrated to the student body by our taking the lead in the annual Thanksgiving Drive. For many weeks, every thought, emotion, and all our free time was occupied in preparation for our most important social event, the Junior Prom, which was partially financed by our basketball jump-off dance held in late November. "June in January" left vivid impressions of whirling skirts, dark suits, and bubbling faces. Anticipating college and a career, we willingly and courgeously faced a battery of tests, including PSAT, Merit Scholarship, and College Boards, in addition to the ever present regents exams. In early May our conspicuously fluttering fingers, bejeweled with new class rings, dazzled all. Looking back upon these events, we feel we can justly reminisce with pride.

Realizing the importance of their scholastic futures, Juniors industriously work for a high rating on their P.S.A.T.'s.

Mr. Moselle and Miss Clarke, Junior Class advisers, meet with Bill Fernandez, Geraldine Corigliano, Gary Selden, and Cyndy Stropp.

step slowly

Bewildered Sophomores, having come as two separate classes from Laurel Junior High and Staley Junior High, we entered Rome Free Academy in the fall of 1962, confronted with a maze of frightening corridors. Our first tentative step in becoming acquainted with our new school life was to elect our officers: President, Doug Magee; Vice-President, Russ Marriott; Secretary, Dorothy Opitto; and Treasurer, Linda Collier. This competitive campaign was accompanied by a bright array of election posters lining the halls. With growing confidence in unified class endeavors, the Sophomore class, using imagination and skill, decorated the corridors spreading the festive Christmas spirit among the students. Highlighting the year, our Sophomore Hop was held in April. A magic fairyland unfolded as the night of the dance began, and its success entirely depended upon the individuals who made up our class, a Sophomore class now enriched with the promise of leadership and unity.

Converging into one Sophomore class with a promise of strength and advancement, we can now point with pride to our success, and we can anticipate a more fruitful Junior year.

Posing with their adviser, Mr. Hayes, are Doug Magee, Russ Marriott, Linda Collier, and Dorothy Opitto.

ADMINISTRATION

The well trained one-hundred-and-nine-member administration is clearly aware of their tremendous responsibility to make Rome Free Academy one of the leading scholastic and academic high schools in New York State. This administration has grown from a few members to the largest in the history of RFA, with teachers that have taught in its classrooms for forty-five devoted years. The successful effort by the administration in achieving the curriculum to develop harmonious student-teacher relationships is one to which . . .

Lyndon H. Strough

Behind the Educational Scene

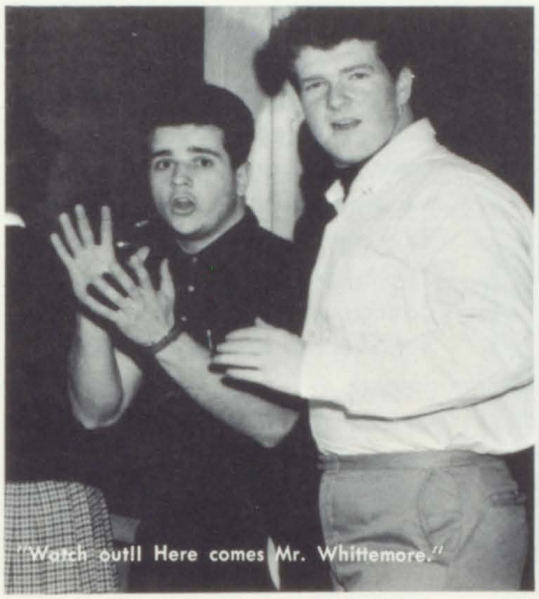
Lyndon H. Strough, Superintendent of the Rome Public School System since 1945, is unquestionably a man of deep-felt duty and dedication to his position and its responsibilities. His administrating abilities, so clearly evident in the fruitful progress of our city's educational facilities and standards, are equaled only by his outstanding character. The extent of the pride of us, the students of Rome Free Academy, in this man is immeasurable.

We also look with proper pride upon our extremely capable Board of Education, a group of devoted citizens to whom so much is due for the extraordinary quality of the teacher's employment, and for the welcome and needed improvements to the schools of Rome themselves. Rome is indeed fortunate to have such people in charge of providing increasingly better educational facilities in this complex age where an excellent education is a matter of necessity.

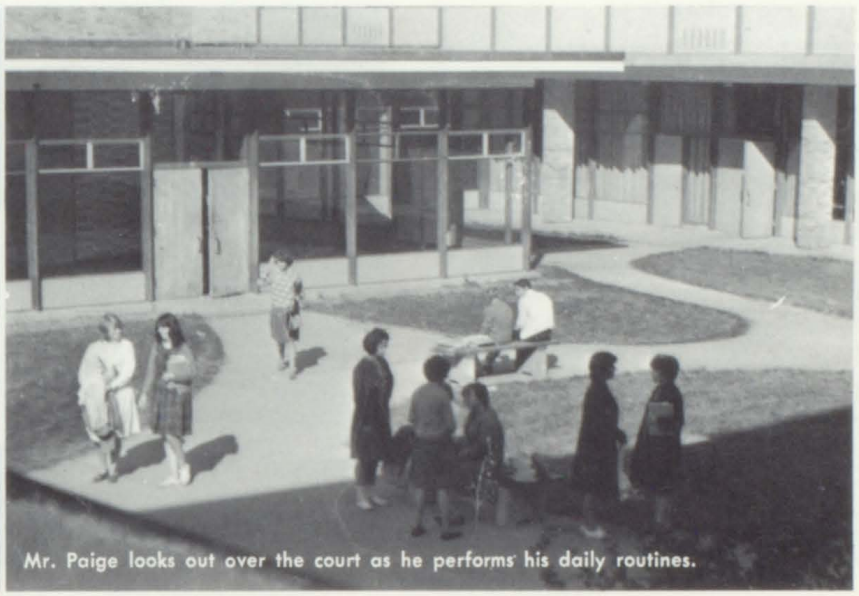
Mr. Strough discusses current school problems with two members of the board, L. Kingsley and J. Bush.

Mr. Carl S. Paige, the administrator of Rome Free Academy for twenty years, has handled smoothly school affairs. Included in his manyfold duties as principal of RFA, Mr. Paige has charge of all teachers and supervises student activities. Endeavoring to improve the present situation, Mr. Paige also shows great concern for the future of Rome Free Academy. He has never failed to be interested in the problems of every student. We point with pride to our capable principal.

Carl S. Paige



"Watch out!! Here comes Mr. Whittemore."



Mr. Paige looks out over the court as he performs his daily routines.

Myron J. Whittemore

Working hand in hand with Mr. Paige, Mr. Myron Whittemore, the assistant principal, has been at Rome Free Academy since 1919. Formerly with the science and the guidance departments, Mr. Whittemore became the assistant principal seven years ago. Serving as the school's administrator of discipline, his job is certainly not one of the most pleasant. With his many years of experience in guidance, Mr. Whittemore is aware of the difficulties facing students and skillfully steers them in the right direction. The patience and sincere interest of Mr. Whittemore in each individual student gives us ample reason to point to him with pride.

Office Staff

Never a dull moment describes life in the office of RFA. The six conscientious workers who compose the staff are always busy. Serving as secretaries to Mr. Paige and Mr. Whittemore is a full-time job, but in addition, the office personnel provide an efficient information bureau.

Physical examinations, eye and ear tests, record keeping, first aid, and checking students that have been ill are the duties performed by our versatile school nurse Mrs. L. Wolzmuth.

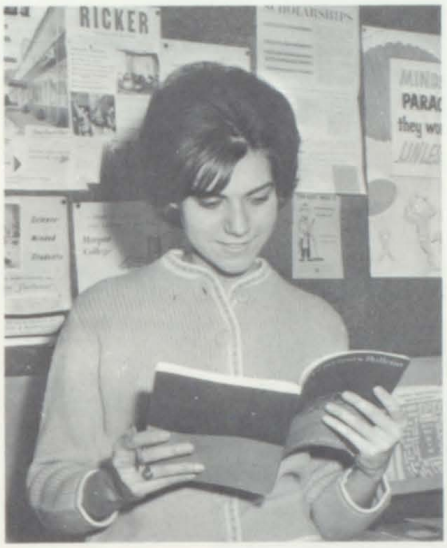
Guidance

Significantly figuring in the life of each student, RFA's five guidance counselors are indispensable. The all-important job of planning schedules for over 2,100 students and planning those essential college and vocational conferences consumes a great part of their time. Approximately fifty-two colleges are represented at these conferences where students can become better acquainted with various colleges and are better able to decide on their future plans.



J. Guaspari ponders, "which college?"

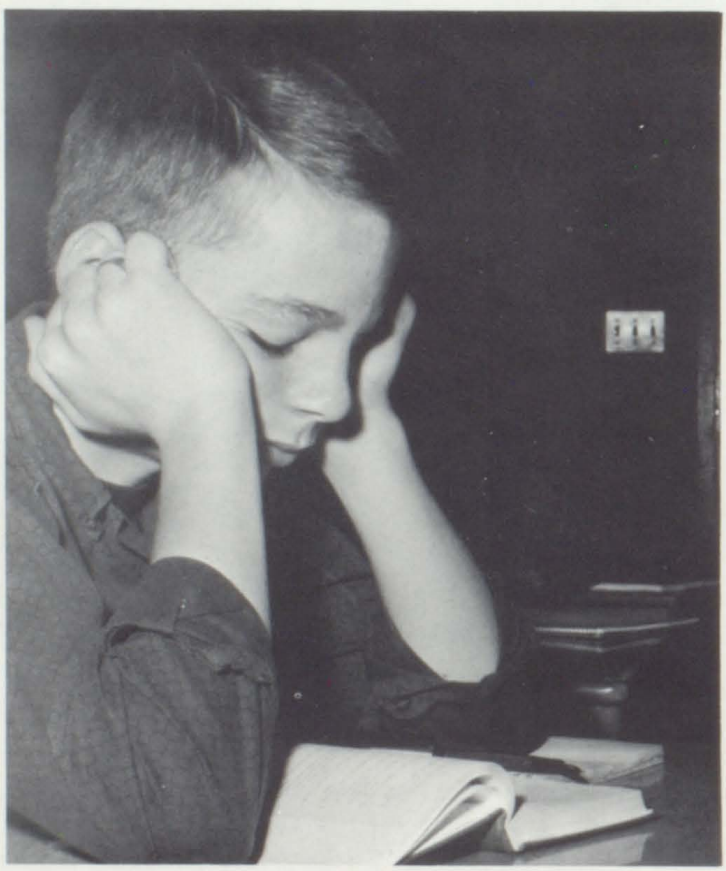
Books — from Sophomore through Senior year — an "organized approach to knowledge . . . liberal and specific."

"Scanning the Printed Score"

Concentration — concepts — conquest.



As a skilled composer blends notes to conjure an image in the listener's mind, so any student must recognize and blend the opportunities afforded him through Rome Free Academy's organized approach to knowledge — knowledge at once liberal and specific.

To help individuals realize this goal, R.F.A. has established a department system harmonizing English, mathematics, history, languages, science, music, art, technical, mechanical, and industrial skills, home economics, driving, physical education, and commercial training. This diversity allows each student to seek out his individual proficiencies and aptitudes and develop them through progressive steps. He is counseled and given a basis through the required courses — English, World and American History, and either health or biology, then left to develop his personal interests through elective courses in the sciences and the humanities.

Each department is staffed with teachers well versed in their respective fields, and specifically trained to guide the student so that he might better develop his opportunities. As a musician scans the printed score before attempting to play, we shall scan the departments that we might better know them.

English

Walk into any English room and you'll notice the dog-eared paperbacks shelved along the wall or stacked in a well finger-marked green cabinet. This but hints at the interest students profess for learning to read and enjoy that reading, learning to write clearly and with force, and becoming familiar with the world's literary masterpieces.

R.F.A.'s English Department, the largest department consisting of nineteen teachers, tape recorders and record players, wandering projectors, and opportunities for cultural enrichment through such rare innovations as the trip to "The Match-Maker" — has developed a three-track program to accommodate student needs and further such interest. It's non-regents, regents, and scholarship courses challenge the student, offering him a Sophomore year crammed with ballads, short stories, and novels — to the extent that Madame DeFarge, Edgar Allen Poe, and Pearl Buck become personal friends and "Its a far, far better thing I do —" is the password to everything; a Junior year complete with plays, essays, biographies and lyric poetry, (remember Shakespeare) so that by June most Juniors automatically spout their pet phrase —"Out, out brief candle;" and a Senior year reknown for it's dreaded term paper. Actually Seniors may choose the English courses they pursue. After struggling through the mandatory practical writing, they may elect speech, American literature, or English literature. This diversity of courses widens the intellectual horizons of students, challenging them to seek, and thus, to learn.

Struggle for democracy — the heritage of America.

E. BALL
Colgate Seminar

. . . From knowledge of the past, comes wisdom to deal with the present, and hope for the future . . .

Striving to attain personal enrichment and a grasp on the fast-moving epic of the 20th century, the Sophomore class delves into world history . . . meeting personages from both medieval and modern European history, and examining the bonds created through Europe's self-extension to Asia, Africa, and the Americas.

Having become intimately acquainted with Napoleon, they come back, in their Junior year, face to face with the men and women who have molded our American heritage, from the days of log cabins to the moments of space explorations, and, by the end of June, have made Dolly Madison, Abe Lincoln, and astronaut Scott Carpenter, "one of the bunch." As well as meeting personages, American History students hope to obtain a clearer understanding of the ideologies governing the peoples of the world.

Statistics-wise, Rome Free Academy's history department employs the minds and talents of sixteen teachers, four of whom are new this year, who, through non-regents, regents, and scholarship-regents courses, are guiding students along the path of knowledge . . . to an appreciation of yesteryear, an awareness of today, and a desire to be a contributing force of tomorrow.

Curiosity + Conquest

In an age of increasing emphasis on science, more and more students are participating in Rome Free Academy's excellent science program.

Biology, usually considered a Sophomore subject, deals with the study of life in all its forms. A pupil studies plant life and animal life. Up-to-date equipment in the laboratory helps the student.

Chemistry students also enjoy the conveniences of a new lab, supplied with new semi-micro equipment where students perform chemical reactions ranging from $H_2 + S = H_2S$ to the makeing of soap. Pupils are encouraged to work on their own although, each year, a few bright students decide to discover for themselves what happens when H_2O is added to hydrochloric acid.

= Science

Leaving our chemistry laboratory, we enter the realm of physics, where one needs only to "think" to succeed. Mr. Palombi RFA's foremost opponent of the "cookbook method," encourages individual study of the principles of physics.

Another of Rome Free Academy's courses, health, deals with hygiene. Basic health concerns the human body and its care, while advanced, with a prerequisite of basic or biology, concentrates on psychology and mental health.

The last of our courses, earth science rounds out a program which has a value for each of R.F.A.'s students.

Bonjour! This familiar greeting welcomes us into the foreign language department. Beginning with French, and realizing the importance of having students learn French grammar, correct pronunciation and enunciation, the French department set up a laboratory. However, the lab is now being used by all foreign language classes.

A few paces south brings us to the land of the bull-fighters. Spanish is another romance language widely used throughout the world. Here again, enunciation and pronunciation are stressed and the Spanish students this year are fortunate to have Mario Froiz-Mora to give them a glimpse of teen-age life in Spain.

The land of Caesar and the Roman Empire lives again for us through the Latin courses offered, giving the student at the same time an insight into the derivation of the English language.

On to the East and the former land of Czars! For the first time in the history of the school, Russian is offered, which is one more example of the advancing progress in language education. In this course students learn basic dialogues, the Russian alphabet and numbers, and many Russian dances.

Calculating

Although mathematics is not required in a student's curriculum at Rome Free Academy, Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors are offered three excellent programs from which to make a selection.

A college preparatory course, geared to the advanced students planning a scientific career, involves tenth year math, eleventh year math made up of trigonometry and intermediate algebra, and twelfth year math composed of advanced algebra and solid geometry.

Parallel to this course is the college entrance curriculum designed for the student who desires a good basic mathematical background. This consists of tenth year math, intermediate algebra and a mixed course of trigonometry, advanced algebra, and solid geometry. The third part, classified under the Commercial Department, consists of business and commercial mathematics. Geometry teaches the reasoning of indirect proofs and complete proofs, the never-ceasing meanings of an octagon, parallelogram and rhombus, and the confusing, but worthwhile, relationship of delta y over delta x.

Eleventh year math, combines intermediate algebra and trigonometry. Logarithms, parabolas, and equations for arithmetic and geometric progressions are just a few of the units frustrating the students. Trig terms such as cosine, sine, and cotangent are slowly, but surely understood.

Twelfth year math enables the students to understand the principles behind the formulas, identities, and equations used.

The commercial course at Rome Free Academy can be pursued for professional or personal gain. For those students hoping to make a career among shorthand pads, ledgers, and I.B.M. machines, the place to start is with a commercial course.

The secretarial course begins with Shorthand I, Typewriting I, and business arithmetic. The eleventh year work becomes more difficult with Shorthand II, Typewriting II, and transcription. Senior year is devoted to putting learning to use in secretarial and office practice courses.

Courses offered to those hoping to enter the administrative end of the business world follow the same basic curriculum, substituting Bookkeeping I and II for shorthand.

The practical side of the financial world is given to the twelfth year student through courses in sales and business law. The diversification of the business curriculum has enabled many students to secure worthwhile jobs.

Safety on the Road

In today's heavy traffic, driving is truly an art. No wonder so many students enroll in driver education courses.

"Driver Ed," which began here in 1949, is a one semester course. Traffic problems, basic skills, driving philosophy, and the twenty points are taught by Mr. Rapke, Mr. Manwaring, and Mr. Wynne. Instruction is given in the classroom, drivo-trainer, and car, where the teachers' calm nerves and cool tempers are a virtue. Students who pass receive a better understanding of the world in which we drive.

M. Ramage and C. Lucio attentively watch the drivo-trainer film.

Mechanical Drawing

For those pupils who wish a manual outlet for expressing their own ideas, the Drawing Department affords an opportunity not to be overlooked. Students learn the importance of accuracy and precision in their scale drawings of machine parts, architectural plans, and electrical layouts. The purpose of this course is not necessarily to teach drawing as a profession, but rather to instill in students an appreciation for the creation of commercial products and basic skills of following instructions.

Training Future Engineers

Keeping pace with the missile age, Rome Free Academy offers Electronic Technology to the interested and qualified student.

This strenuous three year course requires each student to complete, not only the curriculum of the State Regents Department, but also the requirements of the technical syllabus.

The first year Tech student takes Technical Drawing and Technical Electricity. The topic, "Basic Direct and Alternating Current," is of the greatest importance.

The second year's topic is "Basic Electronics" and deals with the study of such devices as high vacuum tubes, rectifiers, and amplifiers.

The topic covered in the Senior year is "Advanced Electronics" and includes such areas of study as transmission of radio waves, radio receivers, and AM-FM transmitters.

This course, which unfortunately many students don't realize exists, is vitally important, molding the future scientists of our generation to whom we point with pride.

A knowledge of art broadens our way of thinking and helps us to live a richer, more meaningful life. The beautiful works of nature, which many of us fail to notice or appreciate, become real and shed a new light of beauty into our lives through art study.

R.F.A. offers an art program divided into two parts — fine arts and crafts. In fine arts curriculum, Mrs. Hubbell teaches students design, drawing and painting. Our ceramics and jewelry department can accredit the success of its students to the instruction of Miss Bellamy.

Mrs. Hubbell is also responsible for the prom decorations, and Miss Bellamy assists with the scenery for the Senior Play.

Many are gifted with, or acquire a talent to produce music. At Rome Free Academy, Mr. Moonan, Mr. Wise, and Mr. Mathers stimulate musical interest and develop young talent.

Mr. Moonan does this through his harmony and music appreciation classes.

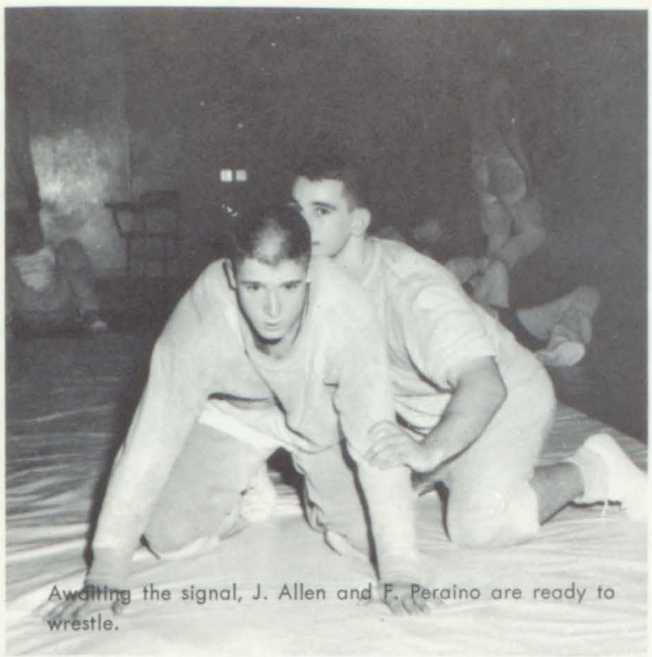
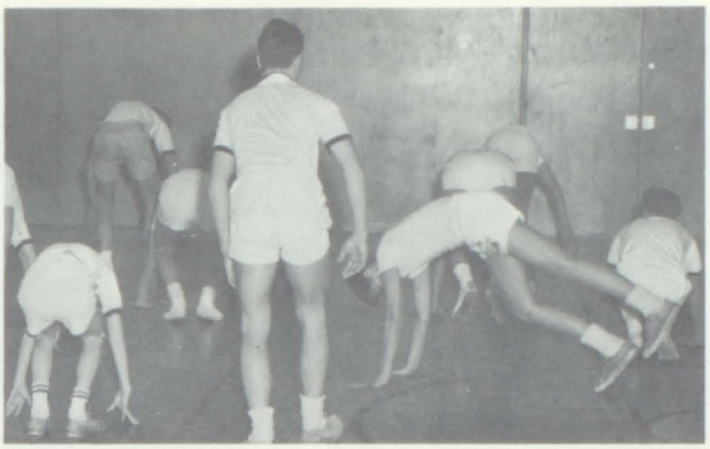
She-shaping

Making the girls "she-shaped" is not a simple task. This training for womanhood begins in the gym class where a new warm-up program, consisting of various exercises, has been adopted from a government plan. All girls are encouraged to participate in class activities and are encouraged to sign up for intramural activities after school. Field hockey, softball, tennis, basketball, volleyball, ping pong, and track compile the list of intramural sports. From these sports, a few girls are selected to represent RFA in interscholastic meets. Poised, well-groomed, healthy young ladies is the goal of this department.

Miss Thomas discusses basketball strategy with a Junior team.



Awaiting the signal, J. Allen and F. Peraino are ready to wrestle.



Boys promote co-ordination and strength through calisthenics.

He-shaping

By the end of the scholastic year, the Boys' Physical Education Department hopes to develop physically fit young men. Our excellent coaching staff, strives not only to improve its training program, but also to instill within the students the importance of fair play and good sportsmanship.

The well-rounded sports program attempts to encompass all students interested in after school activities by offering a wide variety of intramural sports. Varsity sports are considered the "honor-system" of the athletic program because the boys participating in them have been carefully selected, and have toiled and sweated many hours to earn the privilege of becoming a member. As representatives of our school, they are expected to dress and act as gentlemen as well as athletes.

Library

The library is the hub of all school activity. Behind the glass windows, the librarians utilize their professional training, classifying, preparing new books for the shelves, and aiding students engrossed in research. A first-aid station, a haven for classes and teachers, locked out, frozen out, and flooded out, and the postgraduates' "home away from home," are the services of the library. On days when coins are dropped, when we play move the student, and when strange questions are heard, we know the librarians' best asset is their sense of humor.

Rome Free Academy's faithful staff of custodians constantly strives to keep our school a place of which to be proud. These men keep R.F.A. in top physical condition: Oscar Beer; Martin Proper; Dominick Tomeo; Paul Muldoon; John Fletcher; John Cupak; Albert Frisillo; and Royal Witt.

ACTIVITIES

Aiding in the development of the students of Rome Free Academy is the activity program, a major part of student life. This program offers twenty-four clubs, related to the curriculum, each one under the guidance of a teacher. These activities teach students to appreciate unity of endeavor and democratic procedure, values necessary for a rewarding future to which . . .

The Student Association, nearly 1700 strong, is under the leadership of President Joan Guaspari, Vice-President Sue Luizzi, and Secretary Fran Comis. It is the duty of this Association to conduct various extra-curricular activities and to co-ordinate the activities of the Sophomore, Junior, and Senior classes. This year the governing body conducted the Sophomore elections, the annual clean-up drive, and a Thanksgiving Drive which raised the largest amount in school history. The student body also responded cooperatively to the March of Dimes Drive conducted by the Association and to an extensive Foreign Exchange Student Program. With the enthusiastic support of the student body, the Student Association has enjoyed a successful year.

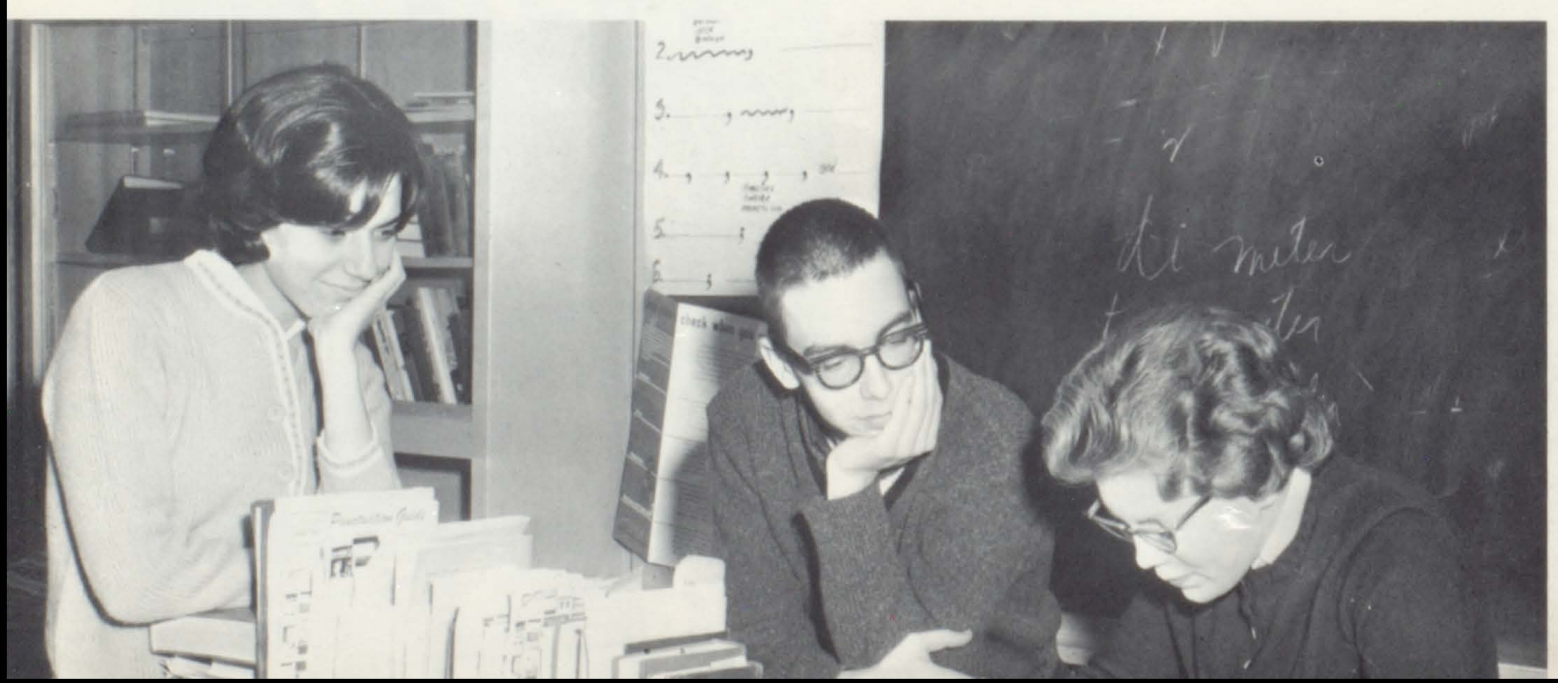
Editorial Staff

All of the noise and confusion in room 225 since the beginning of school can be attributed to the De-O-Wain-Sta Editorial Staff. Organized in the spring of '62, the group proceeded to elect their editors and assistants, then discussed layout and copy with last year's staff. All was not inactive during the summer months, however. For example, Editor-in-Chief Carol Jones attended a special yearbook school at Syracuse University where in two weeks everything from covers to end sheets was discussed. From the mass confusion of an ignorant staff, Carol and group-advisor Mrs. VanParys shed some light on problems that would arise during the year. After a week of such schooling, the staff diligently began working on their sections. Many an hour after school and on Saturdays was spent finishing up the pictures and copy, trying earnestly to make each deadline. With the last page sent in, the staff breathed a sigh — more in accomplishment than of relief. Anxiously they awaited the arrival of the finished yearbooks and student reception.

Pondering over a De-O-Wain-Sta problem are: Joan Guaspari and Peter Zawaly, Assistant editors and Carol Jones, Editor-in-Chief.



"But Mrs. Van," argues persistent Gwen Gunter and tired Vinnie DiCastro as obstinate Mrs. VanParys takes a firm stand at the end of a hectic day of picture taking.

Advertising Salesmen

Under the able guidance of Mr. E. W. Auchmoody the 1962-63 De-O-Wain-Sta Business Staff has been responsible for many different phases of this yearbook.

At the beginning of the year, the staff began the Herculean task of selling advertising to finance the book. Every third period they can be seen learning advertising and salesmanship procedures, diligently working over advertising layouts and copy.

While working on their own section, the staff still found time to aid the Editorial Staff by ordering supplies and procuring two new typewriters and new photographic equipment.

The task of selling the 1963 De-O-Wain-Sta was concientiously carried out. All over the school posters announcing its sale could be seen, Public Address announcements were made and 5 collections were made in every homeroom.

When the books finally arrived all phases of distribution to the students and teachers was cheerfully and quickly accomplished.

With each new year the Business Staff strives to make the advertising section of the yearbook more picturesque and to completely carry out all business-and financing aspects of the De-O-Wain-Sta.

Sponsored by Mrs. Perry, the Press Division of the Bureau of School Information keeps the public informed about RFA activities and learns the fundamentals of newspaper reporting. Members are chosen from juniors and seniors whose English averages are satisfactory and who exhibit the ability to write well. Their articles, covering such diverse subjects as club meetings and college acceptances, appear in the Rome Daily Sentinel.

Typists from the BSI are an important asset to the group for they are responsible for preparing final typewritten copies of all news articles submitted for publication in the Sentinel.

BSI's broadcast group, chosen on a competitive basis and guided by Mrs. Perry, is heard every morning over the Public Address system as they inform the students and faculty of the day's events and special future happenings. The broadcasters acquire proper enunciation and pronunciation, and, at the same time, poise and self-control. In addition to learning to feel at ease in front of a microphone, these students also learn how to write concise, informative announcements.

Under the artistic hand of Mr. Lux, the bulletin board group gathers sports news, feature articles, pupil opinions, and up-to-date gossip for clever informative presentation on the student's bulletin board. The group's great hope is to stimulate creative writing for the board among the entire student body.

A Red Cross Chest was sent to a needy organization overseas and last year's scrapbook was sent to two schools in exchange for theirs.

Mr. Grapensteter and Mr. Hickey, together with the officers, President Diane Martylewski, Vice President Lucinda Lawton, Secretary Ann Marie Paccica, and Treasurer Charla Davidson, have done an excellent job in making membership in this organization a rewarding experience.

Library Council

The Library Council is a growing organization with over 200 members, each member working once a week, learning library procedures and helping the librarians. No previous training is required, only a willing spirit to help from keeping an attractive bulletin to helping with Book Week. The Library Council is primarily a service club, but social events, the Christmas banquet and the annual June picnic, are included. This club could not succeed without the help and guidance of Mrs. Pelkey and Mrs. Arthur.

Library Council members aid with routine Library work.

Mrs. Pelkey and council members prepare new editions for the shelves.

Stage Crew

R.F.A.'s stage crew, which shoulders a great responsibility throughout the year, takes care of the lights, microphones, music, effects, and properties needed while the auditorium is in use. In addition, stage crew members set up amplifying systems for record hops and lighting for big dances and the Aquatics Club water ballet. Its biggest task is technical assistance for the annual Senior Play.

Future Teachers of America

There is a certain amount of personal satisfaction to be gained through conscientious participation in the Future Teachers of America club. Being a member guides prospective teachers toward a better understanding of the teaching profession and a familiarization with the teachers' colleges and their requisite courses. An organization of such active people is naturally active itself. This past year F.T.A. held a dance, conducted Teachers Recognization Day, invited speakers to explain the different phases of the teaching profession, took a trip to a state teachers' college, and feted next year's officers with an installation banquet — all under the able guidance of President Barb DeGrazio; Vice-President Carlene Martin; Secretary Karen Wall; Treasurer Vincent DiCastro; and sponsor Mr. Irwin Brown.

Rome Free Academy's Ski Club, advised by Mr. John Stysh, experienced a very active ski year, as evidenced by the numerous people hobbling down the corridors on crutches. Its main purpose is to provide transportation to nearby ski areas for interested students; the Club found such excursions to Snow Ridge and Speculator an overwhelming success. Meetings were the scene of busy planning, ski movies, and discussions for money-making ideas.

The Pep Club heightens a feeling of school spirit among R.F.A. students.

Under the leadership of Mrs. Helen Arthur, Mr. Edwin Rapke, and Mr. Frederick Lampman, the club has grown steadily.

This year enthusiasm climaxed at the Club dance after the annual bonfire, followed the next day by the football clash of traditional rivals — U.F.A. and R.F.A. Furthermore, members supported the basketball, swimming, hockey, and wrestling teams and promoted the Foreign Exchange Student program.

Specialist in Home Living

The Rome Free Academy Chapter of the Future Homemakers of America, made up of forty-five members, has been under the leadership of Mrs. Graves for thirty-five years. The members do much unselfish work and creative designing. Patients in nursing homes are frequently cheered by gifts and friendly conversation of the girls. The Future Homemakers also present an annual fashion show modeling their own creations.

The Future Homemakers of America is a nationwide organization, holding state and national rallies and conventions, and delegates, chosen for active participation in club projects, may attend these conventions. Since its existence, the Rome Free Academy chapter has had the honor of having five of the twelve state delegates chosen from our school. This year the school officers are Sherry Orendorff, President; Sheryl Reyna, Vice-President; Nicky Scheidecker, Treasurer; Pat Renwick, Secretary; Crystal Shepard, Refreshment Chairman; and Elizabeth Adle, Chairman of Publicity.

Under the able and patient guidance and supervision of Mr. Bruce Benedict, the newly-inaugurated Biology Club composes about 35 Rome Free Academy students. Efficient officers, president, Alan Bucknell; Vice-president, George Frank; Secretary, Ted Gorton; Treasurer, Peter Vandersloot, help to direct the business at hand in an organized and democratic manner. Striving to fulfill its basic purpose, the Biology club hopes to extend to students an understanding of biology and science in general beyond the limited horizons of classroom work, while providing the members with a stimulating and constructive outlet for their individual ambitions and achievement.

Orchestra

The Rome Free Academy orchestra, directed by Mr. Willard Mathers, enjoyed its most successful year ever. This excellent group, numbering upwards of forty strings, presented assemblies at such area schools as VVS, North Syracuse, Saquoit Central, and Staley Jr. High. In addition, our orchestra presented a full evening program of contemporary and classical music, and they competed at the annual music festival in grade V, one of the most difficult levels of music competition. With a repertoire of at least twenty songs, this prominent group was heavily represented at All-State and County orchestral affairs.

Band

Band members can be proud of the fine reputation the R.F.A. band has achieved under the direction of Mr. John Wise. This group gave an impressive half-time performance at each of the season's football games, and was equally outstanding as a concert band, presenting assemblies at Laurel and Staley, and joining with the A Cappella Choir for an evening concert open to the public. In the spring a select group from the concert band competed at a grade VI level of music competition at the annual Music Festival.

Block "R"

The Coaches' Choice

R.F.A.'s select athletic organization, the Block "R" Club, is an important service group at athletic contests. Advised by Mr. George Flood, its members are voted into the organization by the coaches of the men and women's physical education departments, who select the athletes on the basis of good school citizenship and character, and their active participation in the school's athletic program. The Club's biggest job begins with the basketball season, for Block R not only maintains a successful concession at home games, but also has a group to aid the athletic department in policing the gymnasium. In the spring, after enacting a money-making project, the Club holds its annual banquet for all varsity athletes and all girls who have earned enough points for their Block R.

Senior Gym Leaders

With approximately one hundred twenty-five senior girls as members, the Senior Gym Leaders Club, sponsored by Miss Ruth Demers, meets the first Friday of each month for general instruction and gym assignments.

This unusually large group of gym leaders aid the instructors with gym duties such as taking attendance, setting up equipment, checking showers and towels, and many other such helpful tasks.

In all, these senior leaders help pave the way for an efficient and democratic program of physical education.

Officiating Club

As American baseball could not survive without umps, so the R.F.A. girls's intramural teams probably could not survive without the Officiating Club. This group supplies referees, umpires, timers, and scorers for the various sports activities.

Each year a basketball officiating rating clinic is held in the R.F.A. gym. At this time the more highly skilled officials have an opportunity to gain the rank and file of rated official. This qualifies them to officiate not only intramural games, but also area interscholastic activities.

Future Nurses C. Edkins and C. Denti comfort a sick women at the Rome Hospital.

Pat Valvo personifies the compassion of a Future Nurse.

Future Nurses

The Future Nurses Club, organized in December 1958, with Mrs. Loretta Wolzmuth as sponsor, consisted of 30 girls with its primary objective to acquaint students with the nursing profession. Membership since that date has increased to over 180, making Future Nurses one of the largest clubs at R.F.A. In 1959 the club adopted Mrs. Francis Case as a second sponsor, and initiated the "Candy Stripers" program at Rome Hospital. The girls work after school and week-ends, at least 2 hours a week, gaining knowledge of bedside care, hospital control, and ward work. During the summer the club volunteered its service to the Polio Clinic and the Mental Clinic. Each year the club takes two field trips to local hospitals with the exception of one trip to Albany Medical Center.

There are two other affairs during the year which the club plans, the annual Christmas party and programs attended by local doctors, wives, and school personnel, followed the next night by the girls' Christmas caroling. The girls, dressed in uniform and carrying lighted candles are an impressive sight as they walk. The traditional June capping exercise, a beautiful ceremony when senior girls in their Candy stripe uniforms are capped by the school nurse and given pins for hospital service. Interest in nursing has grown since the club's organization, and our high school's representation on hospitals throughout the state reflects the effectiveness of Future Nurses.

M. Stabinski demonstrates patient service — a requisite quality of a good nurse.

French Club

Le Cercle Français, which numbers about 100 members, planned a busy year. The club showed films of France, entertained with skits and French stories, and, to end the year, a banquet with a truly French menu. As all of the meetings are conducted in French the officers, Jack Bobela, president; Roy Jimenez, vice-president; Lynn Martin, secretary; and Russ Marriott, treasurer, must be proficient in French. The program coordinators, Robin Sheldon and Barbara Pietras, have the responsibility of choosing films, stories, and also casting the skits. The advisers, Miss Clarke, Miss Stumpo, and Mrs. Voicy, have helped in every way, supplying necessary materials and giving helpful suggestions.

Next to the banquet, the Christmas meeting was the most important affair. To commence the program, the poem "La Poème de Noël" was read to the group. A candlelight "Cérémonie pour Noël" followed and then the club was informed about such customs as the Christmas tree, the manger, and Santa Claus. A skit entitled "La Poupée" (the doll) was presented after which "La Nuit de Noël" (The Night Before Christmas) was enacted by several members. The program terminated singing French Christmas carols.

Aquatics Club

The members of the Aquatics Club had their first meeting in September and realized that they had an interesting and busy year to look forward to under the guidance of president, Marilyn Dayton; vice-president, Lois Mowry; secretary, Star Burleigh; and treasurer, Becky Faulkner.

Through the supervision of coordinators Miss Marilyn Thomas, Miss Alberta Johnson, and Miss Elizabeth White, the girls began to prepare for their first project of the year, the water ballet show. After having selected the moon for the central theme, skillful techniques synchronized with music developed into routines representing space exploration, adventure, romance, superstition and mythology. Two performances of "Moonology" were held and were hailed as "tremendous" and "wonderful." To continue their active program in aquatics, the girls took life saving and water safety courses.

SPORTS

Realizing that physical strength is as essential as mental strength, Rome Free Academy has planned an athletic program, skillfully coached and well-developed. Individual talent, team work, good sportsmanship, and school spirit are the results of the excellent R.F.A. training to which . . .

J. Harrison shows sportsmanship after loss to U.F.A.

An impressive record of 2 wins, 3 losses, and 2 ties doesn't convey the splendid spirit of Coach Flood's 1962 Black Knights. Their outstanding display of sportsmanship and fine play is something we can all be proud of.

After a shaky victory on September 21 over Mt. Pleasant, R.F.A.'s winning streak was halted at 9 games by a tie at New Hartford. The game scheduled for October 6 at New Rochelle was postponed because of rain. R.F.A. kept its undefeated status with a victory over rugged Auburn at home the following week. It was a black day at Proctor Stadium on October 20 as an alert Proctor team handed the Black Knights their first loss in two seasons. The following Friday saw Rome invaded by an undefeated Whitesboro squad. In an extremely rough game in which the lead changed hands 3 times, the Warriors went home with a close victory. In the traditional game with U.F.A. on November 2, Rome bowed reluctantly to the highspirited Titans. In the season's finale, outstanding team play brought Rome close to victory over Watertown, but a nullified Rome touchdown forced a stalemate.

Special congratulations to Tom Myslinski, whose outstanding line play won him a first string berth on the Up-State All-Star Team.

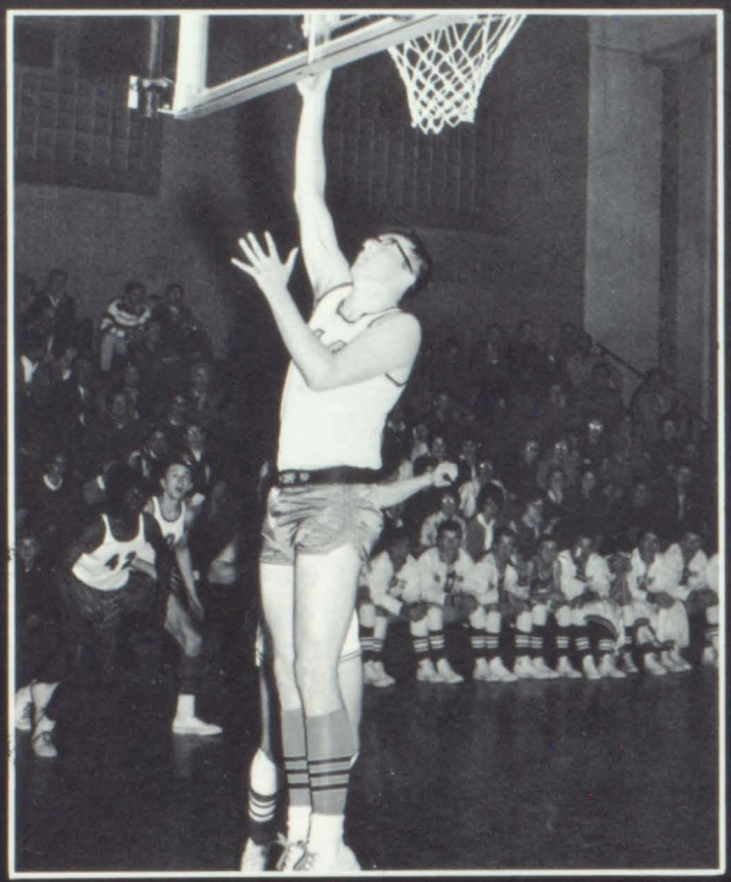
Cagers Complete First Season Under New Coach



Bob Ryan executes a layup.

Coach Lew Bennett's first season as Rome's varsity basketball coach was certainly a success. The team achieved the finest record ever held by an R.F.A. basketball team. Rome was also the first team in eleven years to go undefeated in Central Oneida League play. Rome scored double wins over Notre Dame, New Hartford, U.F.A., Whitesboro, and Proctor to accomplish this.

The two blemishes on the regular season record of sixteen wins and two losses came as Watertown and Auburn avenged early season losses to Rome. R.F.A. invaded the North-Country and was stunned 59—51 by Watertown and Auburn really bounced back to clobber the Knights 68—46.

An interesting incident of the season was the protested Whitesboro game played on February 15. Central Oneida League officials ruled a Whitesboro protest valid and nullified Rome's 50—47 victory. The game was replayed on February 19, and Rome again triumphed, this time 53—42.

Rome fans found no lack of thrills and excitement during the season. Several games went into overtime, including the triple overtime in the second Oneida game.

Some of the more consistently high scorers were Ed Jackson, Bob Ryan, Lou Janczewski and Gene Clark, while Don Schilling, Ryan, and Janczewski were outstanding rebounders.

Pucksters Improved

Hockey's third season as a varsity sport at Rome consisted of six wins and nine losses. Don Geary coached the team with Don Simon as captain. One of the season's highlights was Rome's near-win over Clinton when the Knights almost knocked off the rough Clinton team in a game that ended 3—2. With the aid of some promising young players and with the proposed indoor hockey arena, Rome should produce some fine teams in the future.

Coached by Mr. Ed Weed and captained by Rocky Luiere and Frank Peraino, this year's outstanding squad posted a regular season's record of 11 wins against a lone defeat, a one point loss at the hands of Auburn. Rome landed atop the Central Oneida League and the western division of the Central New York League in the process.

In addition to their fine showing in dual competition, the grapplers fared extremely well in tournament competition. Early in January, they placed second against very tough competition at a tournament in Auburn, with Frank Peraino and Larry Plunket emerging as champions. Rome also captured the Central New York Championship at V.V.S. with Larry Plunket, Joe Vescio, Jeff Allen, Frank Peraino, and Tom Myslinski sweeping their respective weight classes.

Once again Rome proved its superiority in Section 3 capturing the championships for the second straight year with wins by Tom Myslinski and Frank Peraino, who was voted the outstanding wrestler in this year's sectional meet.

1st Section Three Track and Field Meet

Victories in both the Section Three Relays and the Section Three Track and Field Meet highlighted Coach Coughlin's track team's 1962 season. Rome triumphed over New Hartford, UFA, Whitesboro, Proctor, and Notre Dame to become undefeated in dual meets and gain the Central Oneida League title. The Central Interscholastic Meet, held this year at Watertown, was won easily as Rome outpointed Watertown, Auburn, UFA, and Ogdensburg. Few Rome school records remained unbroken at the end of the season as new marks were set in nine events. The new records and those who hold them are as follows: 100 yd. dash, James Martin; 440 yd. dash, Kieth MacCleod; Mile, John Veminski; 120 yd. hurdles, Jeff Allen; 180 yd. hurdles, Mike Monroe; Pole vault, Jeff Allen; Hop-step-jump, Dick Fiore; Shot put, Tom Myslinski; and the 2 mile, James Benson. With several of these outstanding performers returning to form its nucleus, the 1963 team should have a very successful season.

Continuing their long dominance over all the teams in the surrounding area, this year's tennis team succeeded in winning all its matches, running its record winning streak to 72 consecutive victories in the process. Coached this year by Mr. Jim Wells, and co-captained by Paul Ruby and Glen Sexton, the Roman Netmen romped over all opposition to nail down the Central Oneida League title and win the Section 3 championship. This fine effort puts R.F.A. just two matches short of breaking the New York State record for the number of consecutive matches won.

Under the capable and enthusiastic direction of Coach Fred Dair, the RFA baseball team slammed its way through one of its most successful seasons. Leading the sluggers to victory, Eric Maya and Jerry Burlison, formidable RFA battery, helped compile a 16—2 record capped by a Central Oneida League Championship — the second such honor in three years. Scores ran the gamut, but one or two rank as outstanding. For example, the RFA victory over its traditional rival UFA gave us 12 runs to their 0, while our 12 to 7 victory over Whitesboro added another jewel to our crown. Such overwhelming scores are representative of the baseball powerhouse which ran the diamonds for RFA this season.

The sport that draws one of the greatest number of participants is basketball. This past year the sophomore, junior, and senior girls played intramural games on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday under their respective supervisors. After several practice games, girls were chosen to play against teams from other schools. At the season's end, one team from each class takes part in a play-off. This year the sophomores won the most games.

At the close of the basketball season, RFA girls form teams for another popular winter sport, volleyball. As in basketball, each class has its own instructor and each class meets on specific days for practice. This year the seniors, instructed by Miss Ruth Demers, met after school on Wednesdays. The juniors met with their instructor Miss Marilyn Thomas on Thursdays, and the sophomores with their instructor Miss Alberta Johnson on Tuesdays. On Saturday, March 2, Rome girls from all the classes participated in an all-Rome play day at Laurel Junior High School. To close the volleyball season, a Strough Competition was held at which the three classes competed for first place.

School Spirit Personified

"All set? You bet!" was the cheerful cry of the RFA cheerleaders as they began each of their calls at the football and basketball games. Whether our teams were winning or whether they were losing, the cheerleaders knew just the right way to raise the spirits of both players and spectators.

Both JV and Varsity cheerleaders are under the supervision of Miss Alberta Johnson. The girls are chosen for their poise, agility, pep, and neatness, and they reflect spirit and pride in their school. Although their cheerleading at games may look completely inspired by the excitement generated by the players, cheerleaders actually spend long hours making up new calls and perfecting them. Thus when these girls lead their various cheers, spectators can be sure that these girls have worked almost as hard as the players getting ready for the games.

Spring Sports Action on the Track . . .

In 1962 the girls' track team, coached by Miss Alberta Johnson, participated in five meets involving different schools, and compiled a very successful record. Meets were held with Clinton, New Hartford, Boonville, VVS, West Canada, and Hamilton. Rome placed first in total points at the season's big meet at Little Falls. Also participating were Ilion, Dolgeville, Frankfort, Herkimer, Little Falls, Mohawk, West Canada, and West Winfield. Forty-eight RFA girls took part in the track program.

Each spring at RFA, America's favorite sport, baseball, begins. However the girls play the modified form called softball. Under the direction of Miss Marilyn Thomas, these girls practice after school each week. Last year the Rome girls started off the softball season with a victory of 9—1 over West Canada Valley Center. Against Boonville, however, they met a defeat 15—10 score. Their spirits were not dampened and they went on to win against Morrisville-Eaton with a 15—0 score in the third Annual Softball Play. It was an "up and down" year for the Rome girls as they again met defeat at Clinton. At their last game, they bounced back with an 11—8 victory over New Hartford.

Field hockey, one of the most outstanding sports, begins in September. Any girl who wishes to take part in this sport can join. Under the instruction of Miss Marilyn Thomas and Miss Ruth Solan, these girls are divided into four teams. Teams one and two play the respective teams from other schools. Teams three and four also play against teams from other schools.

Archery

Archery at RFA is still in the infant stage, but even as such, it represents a stimulation — a stimulation of girls desirous of mastering the techniques and background of a sport of physical discipline and mental concentration. Through weekly practice sessions and scheduled meets, the girls work toward efficiency under the able direction of Mrs. Dorothea Finley.

The archer must work hard to gain the skill she needs to be successful in her sport. She may begin by shooting arrows from only a short distance from the target perhaps twenty feet. As her accuracy increases, she moves farther and farther from the target. Eventually she may work as far as forty feet from the target. In this way she develops both physical and mental accuracy.

The Girls' Bowling League, supervised by Miss Ethel Abbott, plays from October to April.

Intramural bowling is held each week at the Rome Bowling Center. Girls picked from this league participate in intramural games with teams from other schools.

At the completion of each season, trophies are awarded to the first team and to the two girls with the high single and double games.

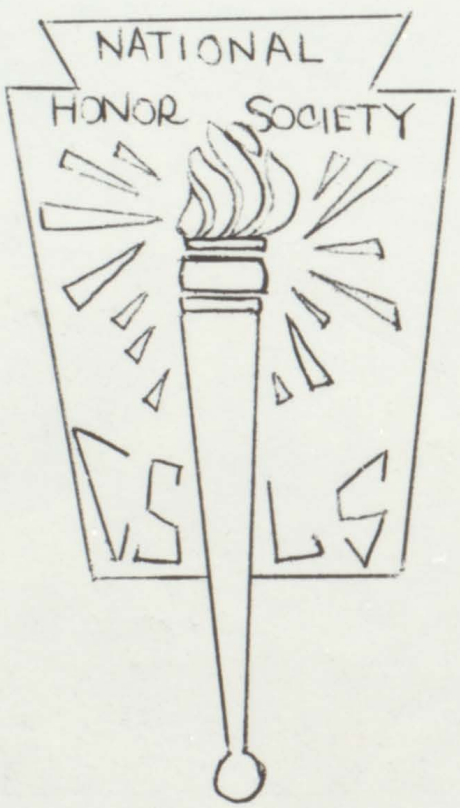
Animus Opibus Parati



Prepared in Spirit and Wealth

The month of April is an integral part of the school year at Rome Free Academy. Ever since 1930, during this month, the senior and junior members of the National Honor Society are chosen.

A committee of fifteen members of the faculty, appointed by the principal, Mr. C. S. Paige, nominate and elect the future members of the Honor Society.

Scholarship, leadership, character, and service are the four qualities which are considered in choosing the members. High grades alone is not the only requisite for membership.

In choosing the senior and junior members, strict regulations are placed upon the percentage chosen and the eligibility of each candidate. Only five percent of the entire junior class is eligible for nomination to the Honor Society, and a scholastic average of 90% or above is required. In the senior class, the top fifteen percent of the seniors may be chosen, with each candidate having an overall scholastic average of 85% or better.

The Induction Ceremony of the National Honor Society is an inspirational, dramatic, and individual affair with its main purpose to honor the outstanding achievements of the members.

Deserving Recognition

Merit Letter Recipients

Twenty-three seniors of the Class of 1963 were awarded Letters of Commendation for their high performance on the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test, taken in March, 1962. This was the largest number of R.F.A. students ever to receive this commendation. According to the National Merit Scholarship Corporation, the recipients of these awards are in the top two percent of all high school students in the country. Three other R.F.A. seniors, Carla Cecilia, Roy Jimenez, and Donald Sobik, through their high scores on further exams, advanced to the finalist stage, thus becoming eligible for scholarship awards.

Excellence Rewarded

Among the two hundred Oneida County scholarship winners receiving recognition this year were forty-nine R.F.A. seniors, the largest number awarded to any high school in the county. We take great pride in this accomplishment, and in the record established by R.F.A of being first or tying for first for the fourth time in five years. These scholarship holders will receive financial assistance from $250 to $700 yearly and are also eligible for scholar incentive awards. High scorer in the county was Rome Free Academy's Carla Cecilia with Steve Averill placing fourth.

Spectacular Display of Talent

In early March the more talented and less shy among R.F.A. students, under the prodding supervision of our own Mr. Elmer Grapensteter, turned in a very creditable, and certainly riotous, version of a Talent Show. Usually an annual event to which we all, grudgingly or otherwise, give attention, this year's spectacular was a delightful example of what can be accomplished when young people with varying degrees of talent and fortitude work closely with a wise "old" head like "Grappy," as we affectionately refer to him. We of R.F.A. point with unmistakable pride to the successful effort by those in the 1963 Talent Show.

Students Take Over

Mr. Paige commends P. Zawaly, "Principal," S. Trudeau, "Secretary," and C. Salce, "Vice-principal."

P. Harris and N. Adolfi sing traditional ballads to a sophomore English class.

For the first time in several years, the senior class of R.F.A. conducted a student take-over day. Each class nominated a student teacher, preferably a senior, to organize lessons, and to teach the class the same materials that would have been presented by the member of the faculty. To assure a successful outcome, three raters were chosen — Debbie Castle, Joan Guaspari, and Sue Luizzi, who visited various classes, making notes on the student reaction to the project.

Mr. and Mrs. Drexler lead the Grand March, as the King and Queen, Fran Comis and Ron D'Amore, and Linda Grow and Mike Burkard follow.

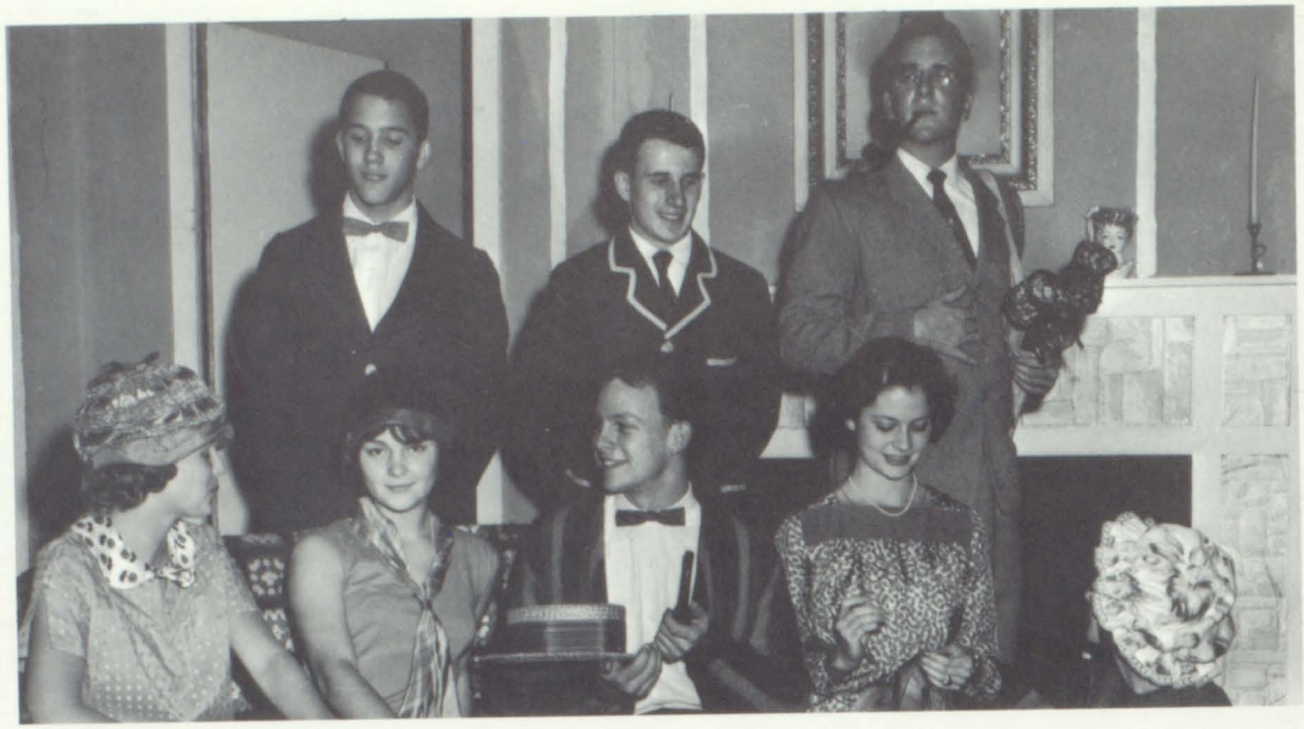
"June in January"

Presenting the King and Queen of the 1963 Junior Prom — Ron D'amore and Fran Comis.

"June in January," the theme of the 1963 Junior Prom, is an idea of what was beyond the Rome Free Academy's gymnasium doors. One saw a soft, radiant, yet tranquil, scene of stars gradually transformed into snowflakes. A luminous fountain poured forth with pink water into a pool of lilies. All in all, the scene was effective in creating that particularly "wonderful" stardust mood.

Fran Comis and Ron D'Amore reigned as King and Queen, leading the Grand March after their coronation.

Keith MacLeod and Brenda Rimiller, Dan Ellison and Mimi Baynes, dance to the music of the Silver Moon Orchestra.



A portion of the cast poses for a publicity picture which helped result in a capacity crowd.

"Oh, how that man can dance the Charleston. Fun, fun, fun —"

The Curtain Rises

An overflowing crowd was entertained on November 16, 1962, at 8:30 P.M. in the Rome Free Academy auditorium when the Class of 1963 presented a comedy in three acts, Turn Back the Clock by Marrijane and Joseph Hayes. The play, skillfully directed by Mrs. Curtis E. Bates, is built around the universal truth that all generations are more or less alike after all. The play is a gleeful glimpse into those not-so-dead days in which parents and children behaved in almost exactly the same manner as the present day generation do.

Mrs. Bates and J. Kjelland apply make-up to Dave Crabtree behind the scenes.

"I'll carry you Sally of my alley."

"What'll you do to stop it? — "I'll show what I —"

"Kiss me, Johnnie!" — "Well a, sure Evie"

On Our Senior Play

"If you're going to crash a party let's not sneak around."

Mario beams as the bonfire bursts into flames.

Student from Spain-

A.F.S. Program

For the first time in the history of Rome Free Academy, we are fortunate to have a foreign exchange student — Mario Antonio Froiz-Mora. He is eighteen years old, and has graduated from Saint Joseph's High School, a private school run by the Jesuits. During his senior year there, he pursued a mathematics course, and among the subjects he studied in his native land were such demanding ones as European Literature, physics, philosophy, English (sound familiar) and Spanish government. Like most Americans his age, he likes to dance, and his other hobbies include collecting pennants and travel souvenirs. With regard to his future, he aspires to a five year course of study at a college in Valencia to eventually become an industrial or agriculture engineer.

As in the case of many visitors to America from foreign shores, Mario has seen many of his ideas of life in the U.S.A., developed from glamorized versions in print and in the movies, shattered. Still he finds the U.S.A., Rome, and Rome Free Academy delightful. He says everyone has been kind and amicable toward him, but then it is far from difficult to be friendly to such a warm and congenial person, a person so like ourselves in his hatred for racial discrimination and his love for American dances. We like Mario. We like the two Cuban boys, José Fernandez and Juan Puerto Meras who are now attending school with us. In fact, we of R.F.A. like the whole American Field Service Program, through which exchange students from the United States and foreign countries have an opportunity to visit, learn in, and appreciate each other's native lands. It is because of our approval of this idealistic program that we have held a successful fund-raising drive to bring another student here. We can only hope that the youth who visits us next year can approach the caliber of Mario Froiz-Mora.

Mario poses with his Mother and his brother.

J. Guaspari, K. Clarke, M. Vaz, Mario, and H. Hirano initiate A.F.S. Drive.

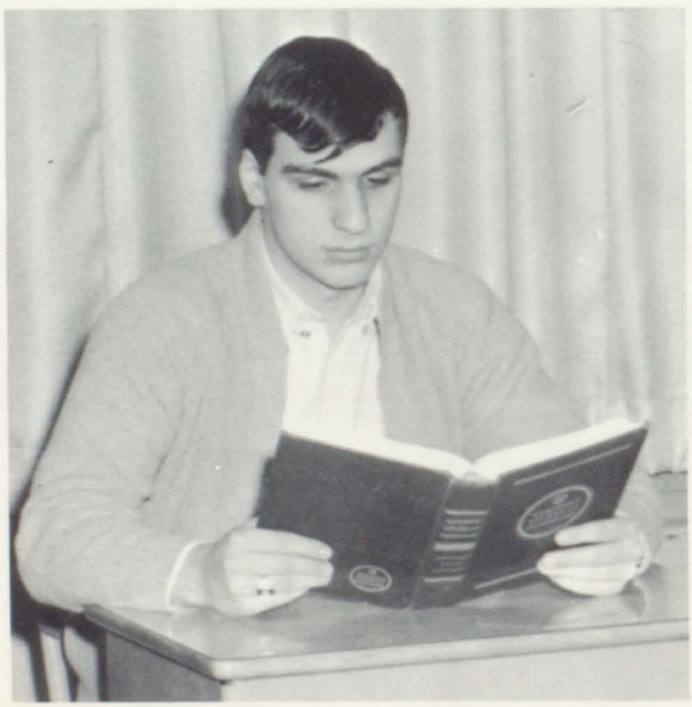
Mario, José, and Juan discuss recent developments in Cuba.

Carla Cecilia, an eager student, has contributed much to the fame of R.F.A. by becoming one of the three Merit Scholarship finalists. In her spare time, she enjoys knitting, reading, and swimming. Carla, who is planning to attend college this fall, will major in either math or science. She was placed in the honors division of the Westinghouse Science Talent Search, won the Betty Crocker Homemaker of the Year award, and took district and state honors in French. Carla's quiet and responsible manner, in addition to her scholastic ability, will certainly enable her to move toward the forefront of the future.

Outstanding Students Bring

Don Sobik, another one of our outstanding seniors, is equipped with great scholastic ability, and an even greater sense of humor. With these traits he should do well next year at Colgate where he will major in economics to become a stock broker. Don was one of the Merit Scholarship finalists who won recognition for himself and for R.F.A. His interests include jazz and basketball.

Roy Jimenez has given R.F.A. public recognition in becoming one of three Merit Scholarship finalists. At Union College, Roy plans to major in physics, although he is still undecided about his future. Roy enjoys water skiing, swimming, reading, and the piano. In his spare time he listens to Ray Charles records. Because of Roy's easy going manner and sense of humor, he has won many friends, all of whom wish him good luck in his chosen career.



Carol Jones, one of R.F.A.'s busiest girls, has been honored by the Daughters of the American Revolution, and she certainly deserves it! Carol is going to Potsdam State Teachers College this fall, and will major in French. She hopes someday to be a foreign interpreter. Carol lists knitting, sewing, the piano, water skiing, sports, reading, and singing as her interests. She also is an active member of her church's Fellowship, and is the De-O-Wain-Stä's capable editor-in-chief. In addition to the D.A.R. award, Carol is the recipient of the Elks Youth Leadership award.

Prestige to R.F.A.

An energetic member of the Senior class, Sue Luzzi was a scholarship winner at the Syracuse Citizenship Contest this year. She loves sports, especially skiing. Her hobbies are painting, reading, music, and collecting stuffed animals. She is planning to attend college this fall, her enjoyment and ability in sports influencing her decision to be a physical education teacher. Her pleasant personality has won her many friends, and we are sure that Sue will be a success in all her endeavors.

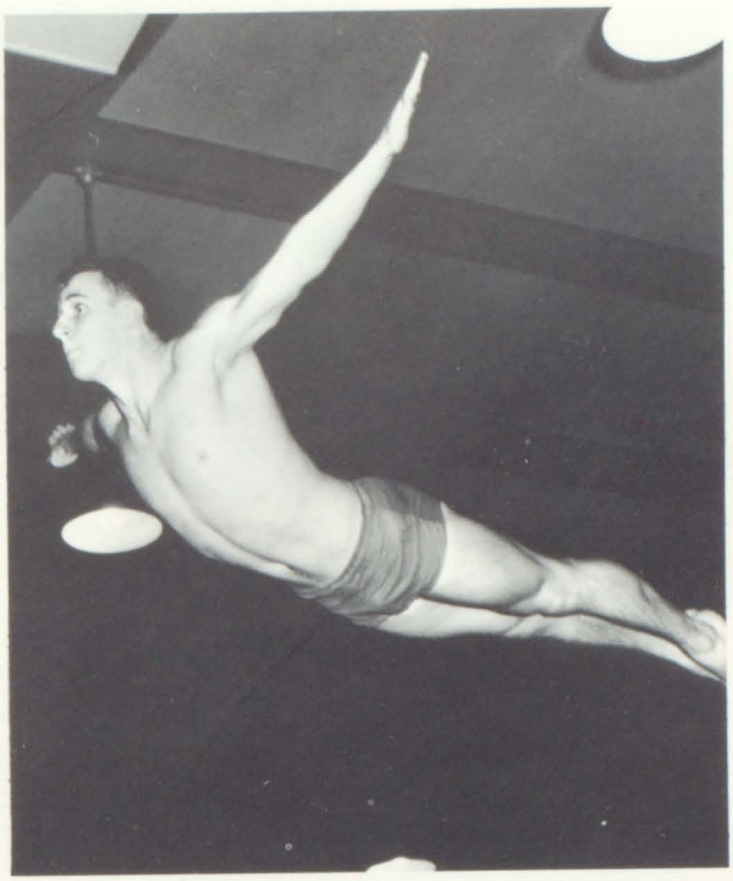
Steve Averill, an outstanding student, leaves behind a great incentive for others to follow. Steve's interests include swimming and reading. This fall Steve is going to college, and he is interested in a diplomatic career. He won the National Council of Teachers of English award, and he also received the Syracuse Citizenship award. Steve has made many friends because of his easy-going, friendly manner. With these attributes, we are sure that Steve will be successful.

Donna Tripp, one of the top Seniors in scholastic ability, has proven to be capable and reliable in all that she attempts. Next year Donna plans to go to Wells for a liberal arts course, majoring in English. If she hopes to make her place as an outstanding English teacher, she has made an excellent beginning. Donna won the National Council of Teachers of English award which recommends her for a scholarship. The hobbies that Donna enjoys most are reading, knitting, sewing, painting, French, golf and swimming.

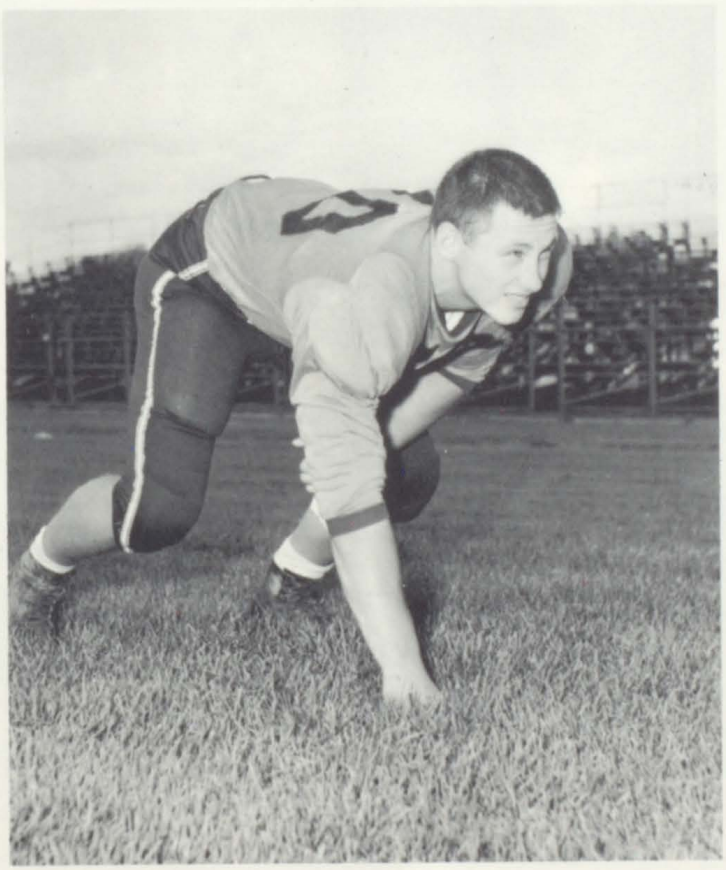
Scholastically and Athletically

Pretty, peppy Debbie Castle was our class selection for the Junior Prom queen. Debbie and her escort reigned over 1962's prom, Carousel, for an enchanted evening. In her free time, Debbie enjoys cooking and working around the house. Her hobbies include reading and swimming. In her Junior year, Debbie's lively smile and enthusiasm contributed to her popularity as a cheerleader. She will attend Oswego State College; her ambition is to be an elementary French teacher. Debbie's understanding manner and her fondness for children will be an asset in her teaching career.

In easy-going Mike Kunkel, versatile star of the Mermen, the class of '63 has an outstanding athlete of whom we can all be proud. He has lettered in swimming for four years, and his achievements have included the New York State Secondary School Diving Championship for 1962. Last year he was one of twenty high school divers in the nation to be named to the All American Swimming Team. In Mike's Sophomore and Junior year, he received the Section III Diving Championship. Mike plans to attend college this fall and will major in either math or science.



R.F.A. Scores High



Every school has its "musclemen" and Rome Free Academy is no exception with Tom Myslinski who has brought athletic fame to his school. An invincible wrestler, eager weight lifter, and fearsome football player, Tom's ambition is to be a physical education teacher. He is going to Bordentown Military Academy this fall, and after a year he hopes to transfer to Notre Dame. He was named a member of the 1962 Central Oneida League All Star Football Team, and he has been honored by the local B'nai B'rith as the most improved football player of the year. Tom's persistence combined with his athletic ability will assure him of success and happiness.

Before school, during school, and after school, the rendezvous.
